About the Webinar

Learn everything you need to know about the basics of Letters of Credit, including reasons for using Letters of Credit in international trade, Letter of Credit types, workflow, parties involved in the transaction and what securities you have and don't have with a Letter of Credit.

Find out more about how the Letter of Credit can help mitigate risks within the transaction, what standard 'conditions' must be included in every Letter of Credit, when amendments to the Letter of Credit are necessary and when they are not, as well as what typical documents are required in a Letter of Credit.

During this 60-minute webinar you will learn how to:

- · Understand the different types of Letters of Credit
- · Learn the risks associated with Letters of Credit
- · Ensure compliant documents
- · Avoid discrepancies

About the Presenter

Karen Pinkall

Karen serves as senior manager for the Global Trade Services Group at First National Bank of Omaha. In that role, Karen manages a team that oversees trade finance sales and operations for the bank. In addition to offering trade solutions to customers, Karen and her team conduct training to customers and bank professionals. Karen is a 1995 graduate of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, where she received her B.A. in international affairs and a master's degree from Florida State University. Prior to joining First National, Karen worked on the international trade desk at Wells Fargo Bank in Omaha, and managed two Omaha retail banking stores at Centris Federal Credit Union. In the community, she is a board member for Midwest International Trade Association, an organization that encourages the expansion of trade between the Midwest and foreign markets.
